

HUCKLEBERRY MOUNTAIN TRAIL #617

Northwest Forest Pass → Not Required
Distance → 2.5 miles
Elevation → High 4,100 feet - Low 3,200 feet
Snow Free → June - September
Difficulty → Moderate

Directions to Trailhead: From Portland travel east on I-84 to Hood River, then south on Highway 35 for about 14 miles to Woodworth road (1 mile north of the community of Mt. Hood). Travel west on Woodworth Road for 3 miles, then turn right onto the Dee Highway. Travel north on Dee Highway for approximately 5 miles to the Dee Mill site. Take a sharp left on Road 1340 and go 1 mile to Lost Lake Road and take a left. Follow Lost Lake Road to its end. The Lost Lake Shoreline trail begins at the viewpoint parking area, 0.2 miles from the Lost Lake Store across the bridge.

Trail Highlights: Nice views of Lost Lake at the 0.5 mile point. Trail passes through areas of heavy Huckleberry ground cover and sections of old growth hemlock.

Trail Description: The Huckleberry Mountain Trail leaves the Lost Lake Shoreline Trail at the south end of Lost Lake. The trail crosses a boardwalk and passes some campsites as it makes its way through the woods for the first 250 yards to the trail junction. Bear right at the junction; the trail to the left goes only a few yards to a road. Huckleberry Mountain Trail makes its first switchback 0.3 mile past the junction, then another one 0.3 mile farther along. Above this switchback the trail continues to climb, going below a rockslide and crossing a tiny stream. It flattens at 3,900 feet, 1.5 miles from Lost Lake. The trail stays fairly level for 0.6 mile to another small stream crossing, and climbs gently for the last 0.3 mile junction with the Pacific Crest Trail #2000. Return on the Huckleberry Trail to Lost Lake or take the PCT to Lolo Pass or Wahtum Lake.

MAP ON REVERSE

RECREATION OPPORTUNITY GUIDE
MT. HOOD NATIONAL FOREST
Hood River Ranger District
6780 Highway 35 – Parkdale, OR 97041
541-352-6002
www.fs.fed.us/r6/mthood

200606

HUCKLEBERRY MOUNTAIN TRAIL #617

